

March 4 – Technology – T11
New Kids on the Block: Regulatory Concerns in Online Vacation Rental Marketplaces

SPEAKER BIOS

William J. “Jim” Priest practices in the areas of land use, public finance, elections, ethics and public works as of counsel in the Municipal Law practice group of Best Best & Krieger LLP. He is experienced in local tax, assessment and fee/rate setting as well as complex zoning and land use matters. Jim has recently worked with several Southern California city clients to comprehensively update their local hotel tax ordinances. He is assistant city attorney for the City of Covina, Calif., where he also serves as general counsel to its Planning Department and Commission, and provides special counsel legal services to many other cities.

Jordan E. A. Ferguson focuses on emerging technologies and telecommunications issues as an associate in the Municipal Law practice group of Best Best & Krieger LLP. He is well versed in issues surrounding emerging technologies and the sharing economy, land use and planning laws, conflicts of interest, free speech regulations, privacy rights, public safety regulations and elections law matters. Jordan advises local governments and municipal utilities on a range of cable and telecommunications law matters, including broadband and fiber network acquisitions; wireless facility leasing, zoning and planning matters; and local, state and federal regulatory compliance.