SPEAKER BIO

Frayda Bluestein joined the School of Government (then the Institute of Government) in 1991. Prior to that time, she worked in private law practice, focusing primarily on municipal and land use law, and for one year in the Legislative Drafting Division of the North Carolina General Assembly. Her publications include books and articles about local government structure and authority, public contracting, conflicts of interest and transparency laws. She is a frequent contributor to the School's Coates' Cannons Local Government Law Blog, writing on topics including North Carolina local government authority, annexation, public records, open meetings, conflicts of interest, and First Amendment issues affecting local government. She was awarded the School of Government's two-year professorship for outstanding junior faculty achievement in 1998, the two-year professorship for teaching excellence in 2004, and the David M. Lawrence Distinguished Professorship in 2014. Bluestein earned a BA from the University of California at Berkeley and a JD from the University of California at Davis.
